Sat TV Dealers Wonder, 'Where Are The Decoders?'

by LLOYD COVENS
Editor/Publisher

SAN DIEGO—When HBO and Cinemax scramble full-time Jan. 15, few – if any – consumer decoders will be in place. Nevertheless, according to a Home Box Office/Cinemax spokesman, the networks will encrypt as planned.

M/A-COM, which manufactures the decoders, has yet to release a full listing of satellite receivers proven compatible with the VideoCipher 2000E signal descramblers selected by HBO/Cinemax. Several major receiver manufacturers told Channel Guide that their receivers have been at M/A-COM's San Diego test facility for several weeks, but no report on their compatibility or required modifications has been received.

Claiming that Channel Guide has continually "distorted the facts" about the VideoCipher 2's electronic capacity, M/A-COM spokesman Mark Medress refused to comment when asked when the VC- 2's would be made available at the dealer level.

"We are filling orders as they come in," Medress said. He refused to confirm industry reports that the earliest any consumer decoders would be in the hands of distributors would be Jan. 10 – five days ahead of the full-time scrambling date set by HBO and Cinemax.

Last year HBO spokesman Bob Caird said the consumer decoders would be ready for the shelves in October.

In May, in conjunction with its announcement that the service planned to scramble and serve home earth station owners, a spokesman said HBO would not encrypt before there were "sufficient numbers" of decoders made available to the public.

"We never made a committment to ship decoders in October," said Medress, denying that HBO had received word from M/A-COM that the decoder boxes would be ready before January. HBO's Caird had expressed hopes that 25,000 decoders would be in the marketplace when his company began full-time scrambling.

Taylor Howard Man Of The Year

Since 1976, Taylor Howard, professor emeritus at Stanford University and Chaparral Communications research director, has been involved in the birth and growth of the home satellite industry.

In 1985, Howard distinguished himself by dedicating seemingly endless hours to serving as chairman of SPACE (Satellite Television Industry Association). Howard directed meetings, gave speeches, held press conferences and most important, served as a key liason in meetings with programmers, cable executives and legislators.

Through a tumultuous year for the entire satellite industry, Howard maintained his sense of humor and has remained optimistic about the future. He has championed the right of consumers to have "fair access at reasonable rates." □

Comedy Channel Plans Mid-Year Launch

by BARNEY PARKER
News Editor

A 24-hour comedy channel is scheduled to hit the airwaves in the second quarter of 1986 on either Galaxy I or Satcom 3, and home earth station watchers, for a change, are encouraged to laugh along.

The service, called the Comedy Television Co., will have a format similar to that of "Rowan & Martin's Laugh-In," according to founder Tom Kay.

Kay said he would rather not scramble the channel, and he urged dish owners to write letters of support that he can show to advertisers and multiple-cable system operators.

"I would love to get 10,000 letters from people that own dishes saying 'Don't scramble, please.'" Kay said.

"As of now we're not planning on scrambling. If the MSOs insist that they want us to, then we'd go along. I'm very aware of the situation with the two million dishes out there for the home owners.

"I'd rather not scramble because we're an advertiser-supported service. We also are a 10-cent-a-home, expanded basic (service). So the bottom line is what the MSOs dictate to us."

Kay and his lawyers currently are negotiating to obtain a transponder on Galaxy I from Home Box Office or Group W Communications. A formal announcement on the channel's berth is expected to be made March 17.

"Ideally, I'd like to have enough money to get two berths on Galaxy," Kay said. "If I can't get Galaxy, (Satcom) 3R is the backup."

The channel will have a board of directors that includes many of the elite names in comedy, said Kay, who has been developing the Comedy Television Co. for three years.

"I'm not at liberty right now to tell you who we're working with, but it is the who's who of Hollywood celebrities and the comedy television field."

Those names will be announced by the end of January, said Kay, who then added that the channel's backers are willing to make an initial investment of $10 million to $20 million.

The network will have a look similar to that of M*A*S*H, with an in-house repertory company known as the Comedy Crew acting as hosts.

'The Flamingo Kid': A Guy Growing Up

by BARNEY PARKER
News Editor

'The Flamingo Kid'

Think back, if you will, to the summer of 1963....

President Kennedy is still in office. The British Rock Invasion has yet to hit our shores. The Mets are a floundering new baseball team in New York. Vietnam is just a faraway place on the map.

Review

The United States might have been an easier, more promising place to grow up then. At least that's the premise for "The Flamingo Kid," which will make its debut in February on satellite television.

Picture an 18-year-old – Jeffrey Willis – who has just graduated from high school in Brooklyn. His father wants him to go to work as an office boy for an engineering firm. Then, it's on to Columbia University.

But being young and rebellious, Willis jumps at the chance to go to work parking cars at a posh club on Long Island where a couple of his friends play, play, play.

The El Flamingo is similar to any country club in any well-to-do part of the country, except for the beach on the Atlantic Ocean. Middle-aged mothers look after their kids and sometimes try to avoid the reality of their advancing years. Adolescent girls look at boys and provoke them into beginning the chase. Fathers show off their wealth and play games of one-upmanship that sometimes include tennis, dancing and a few friendly hands of cards.

The game at the El Flamingo is gin rummy. The participants like to call it Sweet Ginger Brown.

Into this world comes Willis, who is superbly played by Matt Dillon.

Willis is smart enough to know about morality, but dumb enough not to know about high-class manners and things like aspic (a jelly-like salad).

In short, Willis is a likable klutz. So likable that the El Flamingo's master gin player, Phil Brody (Richard Crenna), takes him under his wing and teaches him about cards. So likable that Brody's niece, Carla (Janet Jones), falls for him despite her being a gorgeous sophomore at UCLA.

Willis advances from making big tips parking cars to making bigger tips as a cabana boy. He begins to think that hustling people by playing cards and selling sports cars for a guy like Brody might be a good way to go through life.

But in the end, after Carla goes back to school and following the big card game, Willis grows up a little bit. He decides what is important in his life.

"The Flamingo Kid" is a nice little movie – cool in a klutzy sort of way. It's worth watching just to get a sense of an America long gone. It's worth listening to because of a soundtrack that includes songs like "Just One Look," "It's All Right (So Have A Good Time)," "Get A Job," "Stand By Me," "Money," "Runaround Sue," "Da Doo Ron Ron," "He's So Fine," "One Fine Day" and "Green Onions."

And for anyone out there who has been turned off by Dillon's image of a tough-guy hood...relax. The image is gone. Dillon plays Willis as a kid from Brooklyn – not the toughest, not the smartest, just a guy growing up.□

News Briefs

Farm Service To Launch

PLATTEVILLE, Wis.—A satellite-delivered information service for farmers reportedly will be launched by the end of January on Galaxy 1, transponder 22.

Agrisat, an agricultural information service offering video and teletext programming, will share the transponder with The Discovery Channel. The service is the brainchild of Jack O'Neill, a communications professor at the University of Wisconsin- Platteville.

The video portion of the service will run from 5 a.m. to 3 p.m. It will be offered free to cable systems and TVRO viewers. The channel will contain a mix of vocational farm education shows, agriculture-related sports events and support services related to farm economics.

Part of Agrisat's 24-hour vertical blanking interval-delivered teletext programming also will be offered free to users. The teletext programming will include Cooperative Extension Service bulletins, farm market analyses, commodity price data, weather information and advertisements.

A separate, subscription teletext service, plus computer downloading programming, will include agricultural material for agribusiness, and more detailed coverage of items offered in the unscrambled teletext mode.□

TVRO On Panel Agenda

WASHINGTON—The TVRO industry will be the subject of four panel discussions at the National Cable Television Association convention March 15-18 in Dallas.

Management sessions will include "Serving Dishes: TVRO Sales in Cable's Future?" and "Decoding the Scrambling Options: Is Cable Sending Mixed Signals?" Public policy issues to be addressed include "Scrambling" and "Copyright." □

UV Latest M/A-COM Client

TULSA, Okla.—United Video, which provides signals for three superstations to the cable industry, has announced that it will utilize the VideoCipher 2 scrambling technology and hardwared developed by M/A-COM.

United Video has not announced when it will scramble the signals of WGN, WPIX and KTVT because of its desire to serve the home TVRO market.

"We're committed to scramble in 1986, but the unique circumstances of our subcarrier services and the copyright questions raised by delivering these superchannels to home TVRO customers present unprecedented obstacles," said Jack Riley, manager of market development for United Video.

"However, we're continuing to investigate the implications of copyright questions in serving TVRO customers, and are confident we'll be able to satisfactorily answer those questions."

Riley pointed to a pending agreement between copyright interests and the cable industry for a flat copyright fee which could impact the company's plans.

"The bottom line is we have hurdles to jump that other services like HBO, CNN and ESPN don't have, but they're solvable problems," Riley said.□

WGN Tops Ratings List

TULSA, Okla.—WGN has more weekday viewers than six other basic services on cable systems that carry both WGN and WTBS, according to a Nielsen Homevideo Index Measurement taken during the July ratings period.

WGN, which has led this category in seven of the last eight sweeps periods, increased its lead by more than two percent from the May ratings period. The other basic services are WOR, USA, CBN, ESPN and CNN.□

MSN To Stop F3 Transmission

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—The Modern Satellite Network planned to stop transmitting on Satcom 3, transponder 22, on Dec. 31.

The network announced that it would stop transmitting as an independent cable network and move its programming to two as yet unannounced existing national cable networks.

According to a release, the network planned to double the size of its present national cable audience through the use of its two existing cable networks. The move also will help MSN reach more diverse types of cable audiences. No further information was available at press time.

The Modern Satellite Network is the nation's second oldest advertiser-supported cable programming network.□

REFUND, PLEASE

It's A New Year, But Same Old Stuff

It may be a brand new year, but much of the stuff filling the airwaves in 1986 is the same old junk: wackos with axes hacking up stupid teenagers, dumb dorm plots, and flora and fauna exacting their terrible revenge on picnickers. A few samples:

YOU CAN'T TELL THEM APART ANYMORE: A surf contest is jeopardized when the contestants keep turning up as zombies in "Surf II," presumably the sequal to "Surf I." Cowabunga.

BE KIND TO YOUR 48-LEGGED FRIENDS: Hordes of Black Flag haters are unleashed by an earthquake in "Bug," and you can bet the crawly things make a beeline for trouble. It turns out that the subterranean insects have this tendency to set fire to everything in their path. A must at dinnertime.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This comes as a public service. "Just The Way You Are" has a message for all of us. Kristy McNichol plays a slightly handicapped flutist, it says here, and she just can't find the love and excitement she yearns for. Well, Kristy goes to France, meets a handsome, well-traveled photographer and learns from him the following truism: It is inner spirit and imagination that ultimately brings love and freedom, not the "Love Boat."

AHHH, THE GOOD OLD DAYS: Lots of movie fans think it's pretty neat to rap modern movies and say stuff like, "They don't make 'em like they used to." Yeah, sure. Like 1933, the year they made the classic "Before Dawn." It's the timeless story of actions taken to prevent a brilliant scientist from becoming a homicidal maniac. Norman...is that you?

WAYLAID DOWN UPON THE SUWANEE RIVER: Georgina Spelvin, that renowned portrayer of...uh...historical characters, stars in "Country Comfort," which will do for historical films what "Marathon Man" did for dentistry. Just after the Civil War, a backwoods farm becomes a favorited stopover for randy travelers, the synopsis says. Frankly, my dear, I don't give a damn.

WOOOOO, PIG SOOEY: Gregory Harrison and another guy stomp through the Australian outback in an effort to root out a killer wild pig in "Razorback." It's something to abhore as they bear down on the boar. And if, my dear, this bores you, take a trip to Bora Bora.□

Americans, Soviets Talk

SEATTLE—About 400 Americans and Soviets who exchanged views on an inter-continental TV talk show on Dec. 29 agreed that they want peace. However, they did clash on a number of issues, including whether the Soviet Union offers freedom of expression.

Simultaneous translation was provided during the show, which will be broadcast in both countries sometime during the next few months. Phil Donahue was the moderator at the U.S. end of the satellite hookup in the KING-TV studios in Seattle.

The dialogue on the Soviet side included one audience member calling dissident and Nobel Peace Prize-winner Andrei Sakharov a traitor who slandered the Soviet Union.□

Our new Cog Drive system eliminates most of the service problems you get with a linear actuator. No more slop in the azimuth control. No more worn out acme nuts. No more motors full of water.

Our guyed feed system is perfectly tuned to fully illuminate the reflector and to optimize the satellite signals. It is the strongest and most accurate system available.

The extra heavy-duty all aluminum die cast polar mount tracks 180° from horizon to horizon with pinpoint accuracy and stability.

RIGIDITY For an antenna to produce a sharp, clean picture it has to maintain a very high degree of parabolic symmetry. The structural integrity of any antenna design will greatly influence its gain and beamwidth characteristics. Strength is critical for good performance.

ACCURACY In addition to a perfectly shaped reflector, you must be able to aim the antenna with predictable, repeatable precision. A stable, accurate polar mount and drive system will enable you to enjoy truly care-free operation of your system.

ENDURANCE You'll want an antenna system that performs without excuses. You'll want that same performance tomorrow as well as years from tomorrow. Start with a high performance Paraclipse system and that's what you'll get.

LEFT

FAR LEFT
The mesh panels are held firmly against the rings by snap-in clips. The result is a very clean looking mesh installation.

Our new stainless steel mesh clips are snapped on by one person. Sharp barbs grip lateral grooves on the aluminum ring extrusion for a secure hold.

FOCUS ON The Industry

M/A-COM Intros High-End Unit

HICKORY, N.C.—M/A-COM has added an advanced receiver to its line of satellite components.

The Spectra-Sat T6 will be the top-of-the-line unit in M/A-COM's Command Center Systems, combining receiver and positioner into a single integrated component.

The integrated receiver/positioner design makes finding and tuning the satellites and channels easy. It is capable of storing up to nine channels from one or more satellites for instant recall with all fine tuning intact.

In addition, the Spectra-Sat T6 can be programmed for 21 different satellite positions, including all skew and polarity adjustments. It has a satellite realignment feature to correct drifting reception due to slight slippage of the antenna. Other standard features include stereo readiness, parental supervision, remote control of satellite, channel and volume, scrambler and Ku-band compatibility, block downconversion and many safety features.□

Pico Offers New Receiver

LIVERPOOL, N.Y.—Pico's new HR-1000 block receiver provides easy home satellite television viewing using a handheld infrared remote control unit.

The HR-1000 features include audio/stereo selection and fine tuning, skew control and an AFC system for top performance in a terrestrial interference environment.

The remote control unit performs all receiver functions. The control provides users with power on/off, channel selection, volume control, audio/stereo control and even selection of the target satellite.

Pico's HR-1000 is descrambler compatible and uses RCA connector outputs for easy video monitor and stereo hookups.□

Channel Master Model 6304 Porta-Mount

Channel Master Markets System

SMITHFIELD, N.C.—Porta-Mount, a portable satellite TV system from Channel Master, offers satellite TV enjoyment without permanent installation.

"Porta-Mount is ideal for apartments because no permanent ground-or roof-mounted installation is required," said Greg Hurt, satellite product manager. "It can be set up on a deck or patio."

The system is also geared for installation site surveys by satellite equipment dealers.

Porta-Mount features a five-foot perforated dish, 70-degree feed assembly, and Model 6138 satellite receiver. Special quick-connect cables, a compass and complete instructions also are included.

The dish and mount assembly fold down when not in use, and the feed assembly is removable, making the system compact enough to be carried in most campers, RVs, trucks or cars.□

"We'll have one funny bit after another funny bit – a combination of independent film video, classic stand-up comedians, men in the street telling jokes, imported comedy from Britain, imported shows from Tokyo Broadcasting, music comedy videos and classic comedy sketches from early TV."

To launch the channel, Kay is conducting an open casting call to comedic talent of all types.

"We're looking for average people and professionals to submit funny videos, home movies, jokes, photographs and products to us right now."

Submissions should be sent to 861 Seward St., Hollywood, Calif., 90038.□

Medress said with shipments now underway, TVRO consumers will be able to purchase the decoders (suggested retail price $395) from satellite TV dealers, cable operators and other outlets like Channel Master, an electronics company which plans to manufacture VC-2 s under its own label.

HBO's Alan Levy said he expects little initial demand for his company's services. "The bottom line is that this is just two scrambled signals," he said, adding that in his opinion all interested consumers will be able to purchase a decoder after scrambling begins.

When pressed about the status of the 25,000 decoders HBO had predicted to be on the market before Jan. 15, Levy said, "That's M/A-COM's problem."

A survey of leading M/A-COM equipment distributors confirmed that their decoder purchases were "on back order" as of Dec. 30, with little expectation of the units showing up in their warehouses before mid-January.

"We want to get these decoders first into the hands of the dealers so they can show consumers how they work," said Alan Greene of Warren Supply, Sioux Falls, S.D.

A M/A-COM spokesman offered a national toll-free number for anyone interested in finding out who is selling decoders in their area. The operators also will answer questions about scrambling. The number is 1-800-438-3331.□
